George Zimmerman - who was acquitted of murder in the death of Trayvon Martin in a Florida court today - is the only defendant named in the suit, filed in the U.S. District Court in Tampa Bay. It is not clear whether the city of Sanford will be the primary defendant. Early estimates put the cost of Zimmerman's legal fees at as much as $1 million, since the lawsuit seeks to get him reinstated as a neighborhood watch volunteer. The suit charges that Sanford police officers who dispatched Zimmerman to follow Martin on Feb. 26, 2012, had no reason to believe that Zimmerman was acting in self-defense, and that they knew or should have known that Zimmerman was incompetent and unfit to serve as a neighborhood watch volunteer in the Sanford community. Martin was shot to death after following Zimmerman, who was armed, back to his Florida home. Zimmerman said he shot Martin in self-defense when the teenager attacked him. However, during the trial, prosecutors said there was no evidence that Martin had attacked Zimmerman, and that Zimmerman's claim of self-defense was contradicted by his own 911 call to police, which was recorded from his neighbor's house. In that call, Zimmerman can be heard yelling "What are you doing around my house?"
