... She came into my life when I was just starting out. She is still there now, as my first wife. Although, strictly speaking, she is not my first (I already have a second and a third). And she has a husband, and she has a child, and they still love each other. And I love them. But something happened in my soul when I met Lisa. I looked at her, at her lips, and I thought of no one but her. And she was with me, too, while I looked at her and thought about her. And then... I still don't know what happened then,
