the AC adapter. The battery is charged if the adapter is plugged in. This feature ensures that the battery can be charged even when the power is turned off. The battery is always charged when the laptop is on and plugged in. With the battery turned on, the power adapter power consumption is reduced. The battery is charged within a few minutes when the power adapter is turned on. You can plug and unplug the adapter any number of times within a few minutes. There is a cut-off device that prevents the battery from charging when the laptop power is turned off. The laptop battery is automatically charged when the laptop has been shut down for a long period of time. The battery can be removed and replaced when the laptop is shut down and is not connected to the AC adapter. The battery can be removed from the laptop as long as the power adapter is not plugged in. The output voltage and the charging current of the battery are monitored by the driver. The battery is self-diagnosed when it's not charging or when it's been discharged for a very long period of time. The warranty is available to all valid HP products. The
