It is now present, however. How to I get the settings back? A: If you can't find your settings.php, make sure you're looking for it in the right place: (a) Look for the settings.php in the core directory and not under any of your themes. (b) Be sure to restart your server after you've made changes to the core files. You're looking for this file: /sites/all/themes/your theme/settings.php. Evidence that all-trans-retinol is the primary precursor for retinoic acid and 13-cis-retinoic acid in the rat. Free and esterified retinoic acid (RA) and 13-cis-RA were measured in the serum, liver, and lung of rats fed all-trans-retinol (ATR) or all-trans-retinol acetate (ATRA) for 10 d. The plasma level of free RA in the ATR group was higher than that in the ATRA group, and the level of esterified RA was higher in the ATR group, but both were lower than those in the ATRA group. The level of free RA in the liver of the ATR group was also higher than that in the ATRA group, and that of esterified RA in the liver was also higher than in the ATRA group. These results indicate that the conversion of ATR to free RA (the first biotransformation step) is dominant in the ATR group and that the enzymatic conversion of ATR to free RA is more active than in the ATRA group. The changes in serum and tissue levels of esterified and free RA were highly similar when ATRA was administered to rats fed a semisynthetic diet low in essential fatty acids. These results indicate that in rats fed ATR or AT 79a2804d6b
