in ZX81 I have a zx81 and a character generator (CM) which have been programmed to work together in a similar way to "Hello World" on the BBC Micro (programmes via an IEC port) I would like to write a simple script where the sequence of data is generated automatically. What I have tried is as follows: print "Hello world!" loop:print "Hello world!" wait The program runs and seems to cycle, but not indefinitely, but is there a way to make it continuously cycle (or better still loop continuously)? A: The ZX81 has no interrupts (not even a watchdog), so it runs every cycle just as you have written. If you leave out the 'wait' part then, yes, it will run indefinitely but, assuming you are using a 6-bit ASCII display you will be
